talk of repair has become ubiquitous in recent years in the age of trauma culture art and literature have a new purpose to do justice to console comfort and heal drawing on works of twenty first century french language literature this monograph shows how literature can not only serve as a means of personal development but expand our capacity for empathy help repair the brokenness implied in victimhood and redress individual and collective traumas centered on a critical reflection on discourses of repair and reparations it questions the canonical theories on the functions of literature and proposes a new way of writing and reading literary history praise repair the world is an invigorating and essential call to arms the modern category of the literary it declares is being outpaced by the contemporary uses of literature as a medium of exorcism empathy reparation testimony commemoration existential renewal and ethical or political connectivity neither celebrating nor condemning such uses gefen models a much needed style of criticism interdisciplinary pragmatic relational that comes to grips with their importance rita felski the john stewart bryan professor and professor of english at the university of virginia usa in an era where self help memoir and autobiography command more than their fair share of publisher's lists in france it's tempting some fifty years after post structuralism's heyday to ascribe an impending death of literature to a taste for narcissistic exhibitionism in french literary culture but why bemoan the waning relevance of the question what is literature asks alexandre gefen when evidence abounds in the new century that literary writing increasingly posits itself as a restorative reparative act in the best instances authors who give form to embodied experience imaginatively forge with their readers empathetic bonds of the sort that secular and religious institutions long sustained repair the world is not only a capacious study of writers who hail from surprisingly broad sectors of french society from health and social workers to skilled laborers journalists and educators it's a situated call for a pragmatics of reading that makes of each book an intervention into the fabric of the real harnessing sources in affect theory trauma studies ethics and cognitive science alexandre gefen performs a critically reparative act all his own reminding us that the notion of literature as autonomous object was itself a historical construct in short an ideology reading and writing have always conjoined care for the self and care for others and it's upon that reciprocity that the communities of sense of tomorrow can flourish in a spirit of reparative humanism derek schilling professor of french director of the centre louis marin department of modern languages and literatures johns hopkins university usa alexandre gefen's wide ranging thought provoking study takes stock of a paradigm shift in contemporary french literature away from a model of autonomy and intransitivity to ways of writing and reading that seek to repair restore reassure and rebuild from the varied forms of expressivity found in self narratives to the empathetic projections of fiction repair the world maps out an expanding literary territory that seeks not critical negativity but rather the power to intervene for good in individual and collective life while reserving judgment on the actual extent of literature's effects. Gefen demonstrates that contemporary projects and discourses undeniably center the therapeutic and remediative uses of literature with its nuanced readings and keen insights. Repair the world has been rightly influential in France. Its powerful diagnosis of contemporary sensibilities resonates far beyond revealing both the promises and predicaments of literature in the twenty-first century. Alison James, professor of French and chair of the department of Romance languages and literatures at the University of Chicago USA, what would it mean to ask Sartre's post-war question 'What is literature in the 21st century?' In this wonderful essay, Alexandre Gefen argues convincingly that the main purpose of literature today is to repair a broken world and memorialise forgotten lives. Taking examples from predominantly contemporary French literature, he proposes that literature as therapy has replaced religions of salvation, a politics of emancipation and formal experimentation. Today, literature's mission is to heal traumatised individuals and communities, resurrect the lives of the vulnerable and commemorate their deeds in the face of the forces of oblivion. For Gefen, Patrick Modiano's Dora Bruder (1997) is the contemporary literary archetype of these lost identities to be rehabilitated and reinhabited. Gefen describes this new role for literature without taking sides: the writing is lucid, compelling and non-partisan in an age of victimhood, testimony, empathy, self-expression and identity. Gefen's reparative paradigm is as persuasive as Sartre's political version in the age of ideology. Max Silverman, professor of modern French studies, University of Leeds UK.

Comment et jusqu'où la littérature agit-elle? Pourquoi sommes-nous si nombreux à y puiser des ressources qu'y cherche-t-on et qu'y trouve-t-on? Devenir lecteur c'est toujours faire l'expérience du changement, franchir le seuil entre la petite enfance et l'âge de raison, explorer d'autres mondes, investir d'autres vies que la sienne, incorporer d'autres visions du monde. Cette occupation, j'occupe le territoire du texte autant qu'il occupe mon esprit, peut avoir des répercussions durables sur notre existence. C'est pourquoi les livres furent parfois considérés avec méfiance: on les soupçonnait de rendre soit nous soit nous fous. Les temps ont changé: la littérature apparaît de plus en plus comme un outil de connaissance, de développement personnel et d'émancipation, en nous plongeant dans des univers sociaux et mentaux. Elle élargit notre compréhension du monde, elle recèle aussi des vertus morales, parce qu'elle nous offre une voie d'accès à l'intimité psychique de personnages. Elle développe notre empathie et incarne nos dilemmes existentiels. La littérature fait bien plus que nous distraire: elle nous soigne, elle apaise nos âmes, récrée nos vies et ressoude par le verbe la communauté des vivants.
